Director, Tax & Business Advisory Services

rlundy@gbq.com

Rich is originally from Northeast Ohio and moved to Columbus in 1990. A graduate of Youngstown State University, Rich spent over ten years working for Ernst & Young and one year as tax director with Symix, a publicly-held computer software developer. Rich joined GBQ in 1995.

Rich has served clients in a wide variety of industries including professional service organizations, manufacturing, technology, wholesale/distribution, and construction. His special area of emphasis has been tax planning and consulting for middle market, closely-held, and entrepreneurial companies. Rich also has considerable experience in providing planning services to high net worth individuals, state and local tax compliance and planning, and the taxation of computer software developers and international transactions.

Rich is active in both professional and community organizations, including the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Ohio Society of Certified Public Accountants, and Goodwill Industries of Columbus, where he serves on the Board of Directors, the Finance and Executive Committees.
